Gentlemen:

Recently we had a number of real estate brokers evaluating our community. Their job was to inform us of the positives, negatives and what we can do to enhance the value of our homes.

We received very favorable feedbacks from the brokers in reference to our security guards. They noted that the guards are the first person one meets when entering the community. The brokers commented on the guards professionalism, that they were greeted with a smile, were friendly, helpful, neatly dressed in their uniforms and eager to please.

I, as head of security in the community, hold our guards in high esteem.

Sincerely,

Leonard Simons,
Chairman of Security
